en an active candidate for the position. He was selected Saturday evening, and was notified that he could have the position if he wanted it. Mr. Walsh to-day met Senator Jones, the new chairman of the national committee, and told him he would accert. The two went to the office of Simon P. Sheerin, of Indiana, the outgoing secretary, who turned over the books, documents and papers of the committee to his SUCCESSOR.

"There is nobody whom I would rather see succeed me," said ex-Secretary Sheerin, after the transfer had been made. "Mr. Walsh is a man for whom I have the highest respect. He is a shrewd politician and a man who has been remarkable all his life for his loyalty to his friends. Though his management of Mr. Boies's affairs did | earnest requests and solicitations have not not wind up successfully, yet it was as good as any man could have done under the circumstances. His methodical and ferring to continue his tight in Congress business-like conduct of his affairs won the approval of the majority of the national committee and he was practically selected unanimously.'

SECRET HISTORY.

The Mob Was Prepared to Shed Blood

if Hill Was Made Chairman. ST. LOUIS, July 13 .- The Globe-Democrat says: "Several chapters of interesting political secrets were written by the Democratic national convention of 1896, and some of them involve things which at one time threatened to make a dark chapter in American history. It has escaped general attention that the committe on rules and order of business never did present a full report, and behind this fact is concealed a queer story. But the election of temporary Chairmon Daniel was attended by hidden circumstances, tinged with so sinister an aspect that men acquainted with the details shudder as they look back at the awful possibilities that were once

"Six hundred men entered the Coliseum last Tuesday morning prepared to shod blood, were it necessary to prevent Senator D. B. Hill from presiding. The freesilver men were dublous Monday night. It had developed that the sound-money men were striving earnestly to win over sufficient white-metal delegates to secure the jority report. Free-coinage leaders were their followers as to Senator Hill's ailed upon to cast their votes for the New Yorker. A doubt grew as to the finally restored solidity to the bimetallic forces and before midnight Senator Jones was assured that Senator Hill would be turned down on the next day. "The national committee had promised that both sides would be given a fair show, and the silverites consequently hoped to gain their point by balloting. However, so bitter was the feeling at that time, it was feared that the gold-standard national committeemen might name and install Senator Hill as temporary chairman without submitting the matter to a vote. Preparations were made to either circumvent or block such a scheme if it were attempted. The steering committee took every precaution. Force would have been exercised had the occasion required. Senator Jones issued instructions that every free-silver delegate be in his scat at the convention hall by 11:30 o'cloc. Tuesday morning, a half hour before the time appointed to open the session. 'The situation became worse complicated in the forenoon. Hundreds of delegates clamoring for admission at 11:39 o'clock, but the Coliseum doors were closed. The free-coinage men grew impatient and a fear spread among them that a plot was working to bar them out of the preliminary proceedings. Governor Altgeld, at the head of the Illinois delegation, reconnoitered the big building in search of an open entrance. At last his impatience gave way to sterner feelings. A council of war was held. The question under consideration was as to the advisability of assaulting and battering down a door so that the anti-gold-standard delegates could "Fortunately at that juncture Police Inspector Hunt appeared on the scene. He grasped the seriousness of the situation and hastily arranged so that the indignant delegates could take their seats. In accordance with instructions, Senator Daniel stationed himself on the platform near the chairman's desk. National committeeman H. D. Clayton, who presented the minority report, turning down Senator Hill, sat between the Virginian and the presiding officer. Concealed on his person was a gavel. It was to have been handed to Senator Daniel at the first intimation of an attempt to force Senator Hill in. "'Under no circumstances would the New Yorker have been installed,' declared a Western member of the steering committee to-day. But, luckily the majority of the national committee kept faith with the sitver delegates. If it had failed to do so there might have been serious trouble. The New York Senator had been warned that the free-silver delegates would not accept him as temporary chairman. Monday Senators White, Pasco and Cockrell called on Hill. They formally notified him, as friends and as representatives of the freecoinage delegation, that if he went before the convention as the nominee for the temporary chairmanship he would certainly be 'turned down.' They said that they regretted that they ich a message, but the interests of the liver element were at stake. Senator Hill was assured that no personal feelings entered into the matter. The free-coinage leaders had concluded that if he were chosen the newspapers of the country would print in flaring headlines an announcement that the gold-standard delegntes had triumphed; that they were in power at the convention. It was reasoned that this would have an evil effect on the pirits of the free rilverites throughout the Nation. Senator Hill thanked his three colleagues for the intelligence they conveyed him, but he could not commit himself with regard to his plans. His callers left without knowing positively whether he would permit his name to go before the

Jones Will Announce Date of Notifieation Ceremonies Later.

CHICAGO, July 13.-Senator Jones, of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, left for Washington to-day and will announce from there the executive committee on the national committee which will have charge of the campaign. The time and place for the formal notification of the Democratic presidential and vice presidential candidates has not yet been determined, but will be in few days. It is stated that personally Mr. Bryan prefers New York city and it is ce will the time probably in the second week of August.

Members of the committee are unanimously in favor of establishing subheaduarters of the committee at Chicago. Many of them wish the main headquarters removed from New York and brought here. The members of the committee still remaining in the city discussed this proposition in the Palmer House. Senator Jones, before leaving for Washington, said:

"There will be another meeting of the national committee some time during the next week, when the subject of changing the headquarters will be more fully considered. You will be safe in saying that in all probapility the campaign of 1806 will be directed from headquarters located at Chicago. I am in favor of the change from New York for many reasons."

Bland Wants in Congress Again. LEBANON, Mo., July 13 .- In their disappointment over the defeat of Bland for the presidential nominee, many Missouri Democrats have turned to Mr. Bland to lead the party in Missouri this fall as the candidate for Governor. He has received many telegrams and letters the last few days urging him to become a candidate. These moved him and will not change his course. He made up his mind several years ago that he did not want to be Governor, prefor the people of the entire country. He said last night that he would not be a candidate for Governor; that he did not want the nomination, and under no circumstances would be enter the gubernatorial race. He made this statement in the most positive and emphatic manner, leaving no doubt that he meant it, and that to induce him to become a candidate for Governor would be useless. In this connection Mr. Bland said he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this, his old district. He desires to go back to Congress to make the fight for free silver in the House.

A Pennsylvania Bolter. PHILADELPHIA, July 13.-Samuel Dickson, of this city, who was elected at the Democratic State convention as a presidential elector, has sent a letter to State Chairman Wright, resigning the office. In his letter he says in part: "It is impossible for those who approved what was said and done at Allentown to accept the platform or the candidates of Chicago. It is impossible for any Demo-crat who believes in the principles and traditions of his party to support a proposal to make inconvertible silver dollars a legal tender for more than they are really worth. Such being the condition of af-fairs and as the Republican party now gives a reasonable assurance of maintaining the gold standard it seems to me that all sound Democrats should in this campaign give it their support unless Demo-cratic candidates should hereafter be nominated upon a satisfactory platform."

Bryan Cannot Carry Nebraska. LINCOLN, Neb., July 13.-There is a heavy Republican majority in this city, but dispatched in cabs to round up and pell it appears to be the aim of all to speak in the highest terms of the personal character It leaked out that a majority of of Mr. Bryan, but in a decidedly qualifying Virginians and Oregonians had | tone politically. So long as the nominee at Chicago must necessarily have been a Democrat they are glad it is Bryan. But they freely express the opinion that, considering the platform, he will fall short in Nebraska of carrying the State by the usual Republican majority. The gold-standard Democrats here are clamlike in their silence on political questions and conditions. The Populists of the State hold their county conventions Saturday to select State dele-gates. The sentiment is divided as to the indorsement of Bryan and fusion.

> Delaware Democrats Not Populists. WILMINGTON, Del., July 13.-Senator George Gray said to-day, in reference to the Chicago platform: "The financial plank of the platform is contrary to all my beliefs and to what I consider sound Democracy. I cannot change these beliefs even at the bidding of a Democratic national convention. Convictions cannot be compromised. The Delaware Democracy is an organization distinct from the national Democracy, and has a history and traditions of its own. It is too early to say what its course will be. The Democracy in this State has always had, and is likely to continue to have, strong sympathy with hat of New York, New Jersey and Mary-

Caldwell Now a Rank Populist. GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Col., July 13 .-Judge H. C. Caldwell, when asked his opinion of the work of the Democratic convention, replied: "The wisdom of its action amounts to inspiration. No better man or sounder platform has been presented to the American people by any party in a third of a century. It marks an epoch in political history of this country. Ackinley is the Napoleon of the gold standard forces, Bryan is the Wellington of the allied silver forces, and the historical parallel will be complete except that this modern Napoleon, after his Waterloo, will go to the headwaters of Salt creek instead of St. Helena."

Bryan Indorsed in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 13.-Conventions were held Saturday in forty-three counties to choose delegations to the nonpartisan free-silver convention which meets here next Wednesday to send delegates to the national convention at St. Louis. Democrats, Populists and Republicans participated in the meetings, and in every county the nomination of William J. Bryan for President was indorsed and delegates instructed to vote at the Topeka convention only for men who will support his nomination. Seven Populist county conventions were also held, and all of these indorsed the action of the Chicago convention.

Conference of Bolters.

MANITOU, Col., July 13,-Senator Teller, who has been a guest of one of the hotels bois, of Idaho, and Congressman Hartat this meeting an address will be issued as to the course of the Republicans who left the St. Louis convention on the national ticket.

Carmack for Congress. MEMPHIS Tenn., July 13.-Hon. E. W. Carmack, until recently editor of the Commercial Appeal, was to-day nominated by the Bimetallic Democratic League for Congress from the Tenth (Memphis) district. Mr. Carmack is a representative silver leader and was a delegate at large to the recent Democratic convention at Chicago. Hon. Josiah Pattison will probably contest the district with Mr. Carmack.

Henry Watterson Not a Bryanite. LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 13 .- The following cablegram was received this morning by W. N. Haldeman, president of the Ceurier-Journal Company, from Henry Watterson, dated Geneva, Switzerland "Another ticket our only hope. No com-promise with dishonor. Stand firm. "HENRY WATTERSON."

New Hampshire Dems to Confer. NASHUA, N. H., July 13 .- Hon C. A Sulloway, representing the New Hampshire delegation, has telegraphed Chairman Amey, of the State committee, to call a convention to determine what position shall be assumed by the New Hampshire Democrats with reference to the silver Capture of a Train Robber. OTTUMWA, Ia., July 13 .- Word has been received from Lawson, Mo., of the capture of Ely, the train robber, for whom the Burlington secret-service officers and Pinkertons have been searching for a year and a half. In company with Frank Bateman, Ely held up passenger train No. 4, in the suburbs of Ottumwa, about 6 o'clock on the evening of Feb. 25, 1895. The robbers secured over $5,000 in cash and escaped. Bateman was captured shortly afterward at Moberly, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for five years. Ely escaped to Mexico, and this is the first that has since been heard of him.

Severe Rainstorm.

CINCINNATI, July 13 .- A heavy storm of rain last night caused considerable damage in southern Ohio and northwestern Kentucky. Only a little portion of it touched Cincinnati, but at Newton, ten miles away. the rainfall was tremendous, causing great amage to fences and crops. A private dispatch from the Kanawha river tells of the rise of that river of fourteen feet in an incredibly short time and the sweeping away of a Cincinnati camping party on the hore. Fortunately the occupants escaped to high ground and thus saved their lives There are rumors, however, of loss of life, not yet confirmed.

Speech of Gen. Francis A. Walker, of Boston-His Opinion as to the Effect of Democracy's Declaration.

LONDON, July 13.-The Bimetallist League of Great Britain held its annual meeting to-day in the Canon-street Hotel. The annual report declares that the cause of international bimetallism has made substantial progress during the year, both in Great Britain and abroad. It mentions the resolutions adopted by the Chamber of Deputies in France, the Chamber of Representatives in Belgium, and the Prussian Diet, declaring for bimetallism, and continues: "In the United States all parties and classes would welcome bimetallism. A further effort on the part of his friends | large section of the people there are, however, so convinced of the necessity for the remonetization of silver that they are indisposed to wait for international agreement. No party of any importance in the United States favors gold monometallism."

The report concludes as follows: "The dangers to the industrial life of the nation

rest on those who oppose that monetary system under which our prosperity advances by leaps and bounds A letter was read from Lord Aldenham (Mr. Henry Hucks Gibbs) president of the League, in which he congratulates the members upon the great progress which has been made in the United States. "It is indeed a striking fact." Lord Aldenham wrote, "that this question, which some are apt to treat with contempt, should be apparently the main positical question before a nation of 70,000,000 people." Lord Aldenham also alluded to what he termed the ignorance of the London press on this subject. "They joined," he said, "the chorus for honest money, believing that these words are applied in America to gold monometallism, and not, as they really are, to international bimetallism. Whatever may be the result of the presidential election. Lord Aldenham added, "we may be sure that our cause generally is prospering."
The meeting was largely attended. Mr. Robert Barclay, of Manchester, A letter of regret was read from Mr. A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, who said that only illness prevented him from being present.

General Francis A. Walker, of Boston, Mass., made a speech which was greeted the American standpoint. He said that the all-engrossing topic at the Republican convention at St. Louis was the currency. Governor McKinley, he said, was never a gold monometallist and could not be if he tried. General Walker read the Kohlsaat St. Louis resolution on the currency issue and the Boston resolution regarding the gold standard, both of which were heartily cheered. General Walker continued: "It is deeply to be regretted that millions of our best citizens as represented at the Chicago convention last week, declared for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the action of other countries. This was done passionately, but the effect will be to maintain the gold stand-

ANDREE AND HIS BALLOON.

Over the Frozen North. LONDON, July 13 .- Advices have been received from Tromsoe, Norway, that Arnold Pike's steamer Victoria has arrived there after having visited the Swedish aeronaut, Herr Andree, at Dane's island. The erection of a balloon house had been begun and Herr Andree expected to be ready to start on his aerial voyage toward the north pole early in July. Before starting, however, it was the intention of the aeronaut to test his balloon thoroughly by sending it up attached by ropes and by telephone to the steamer Virgo, which vessel conveyed Herr Andree and his companions and their outfit to Spitzbergen.

A third Cabinet council was held to-night and it was stated afterwards that the Cabinet crisis would be terminated tomorrow and that the question of the amount of the military expenditures may be regarded as solved. The distribution of the portfolios in the reformed Cabinet will be arranged to-morrow. It is still rumored that Lientenant General Pelloux may enter Garden Party at Buckingham Palace. LONDON, July 13.-The Prince and Princess of Wales, in behalf of the Queen, gave a garden party at Buckingham Palace this afternoon in honor of Princess Maud of Wales, who is to be married to Prince Charles of Denmark on Wednesday. The royal party arrived at 4:30 p. m. The state rooms of the palace were thrown open to the guests, of whom there were about one thousand, including the usual number of opresentatives of the British aristocracy besides distinguished people from the various colonies and from East India. The United States embassador, Mr. Thomas F. Bayard, and his entire staff, and Mr. Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, also attended. Other Americans who were present were the Hon. Henry B. Brown, Associate Justice of the United States Sureme Court, and Mrs. Brown; Judge Oliver Wendell Holmes, of Boston; Mrs. Colgate and Mr. Lloyd Griscom, of Philadelphia.

The Kniser Courteous to Frenchmen. BERLIN, July 13.-While the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, having Emperor William on board, and the German cruiser Gefion were lying at anchor in the Lyster Flord, Norway, on Saturday the French steamer General Chansey went aground off Floro. The Emperor sent the Gefion to pull off the French vessel, which she succeeded in doing to-day.

EXPORTS OF A MONTH.

June Statement of the Government

WASHINGTON, July 13 .- The June statement of the Bureau of Statistics shows that the value of exports of breadstuffs during the month was $11,693,164, as compared with $8,954,040 for June, 1895. For the $133,920,390, a gain of nearly $24,000,000 over the same period in 1895. The cotton exports for June aggregated $5,210,160, which is only a slight decrease from June last year. For the ten months, however, the loss was about $11,500,000. The mineral and oil exmonth of about $350,000 and about $15,000,-600 for the year. His Wife Still Has the Cow.

The telegraph tells of a man who died recently in a town near Atchison while milking a cow. Special importance is paid to the incident for the reason that, without doubt, the man's tragic ending is the culmination of a life of wasted protest. He objected to a cow, but his wife persisted in keeping one. She went further, and compelled him to milk it. His proud spirit was trampled under foot, and in a dejected and hopeless fashion he used to sally forth every night and morning to spend an hour squeezing down a pint of milk. He pined and fretted and death set its mark upon him, but his wife was so occupied with pencil and paper figuring up how much the cow would have made by fall that she did not heed the warning. The end came while he was engaged in the loathsome task, and the woman no longer has a hus-

A PARISIAN BOARDING HOUSE TYPE AND HER CHARACTERISTICS.

Her Notions of Profit Involve Starvation Rations for the Unfortunate Inmates of Her House.

Paris Letter in New York Post.

There is nothing more curious than a study of the habits of the little bourgeoise in Paris. To penetrate into the precincts wherein she breathes and thrives the foreigner must pay an exorbitant price. For above and beyond everything, the little bourgeoise is thrifty. Avarice is her great, her besetting sin, and, like all vices, it becomes stronger than herself when such an occasion for exercising it presents itself as the exploiting of the stranger at her gates. For this reason would I earnestly recommend the traveler not abundantly supplied with patience, fertitude in the endurance of roguery, and lucre, to meet the exorbitant demands on his purse, to avoid my interesting friend, the little bourgeoise. She has recently adopted the seemingly innocent habit of adding to her income by taking in a foreign boarder. If ever a boarder was "taken in," in this world or the next, it is when he, especially she, seldom realized in Latin countries of per- falls into the hands of the little bourgeoise. To begin with, this opening of private doors to the traveler or overseas student is opposed to the habits and traditions of her race. The result is that she magnifies her legitimate profits, and in her arder to amass francs on ground where now be brought forward on the strength of the permanence of the government and the she is practically free of all commercial continuance of the present policy of prog-ress. The administration was never strongor professional restrictions, she has no mean fear of overstepping the limits of honesty. From the very start she is only too ready to dispense with this homely virtue, except in a rigid determination to see that nobody on earth shall cheat ber of the value of a single farthing. I know not which is the more astounding, her inflexible insistence on the honesty of her "bonne" or the flexibility of her own conscience when it comes to alien claims on Say, for instance, she has been fortunate enough to find a couple of American students and an English artist. Young women she of course prefers, because they are more easily cheated and shyer of monetary disputes. She will demand for the poorest table imaginable and the perfunctory servsice of a single maid of all work the terms of a first-class pension de familles, where a couple of servants, a cook and a boy will be kept, and the table be nearly as good as that of a good hotel. Her excuse is that she is not a boarding-house keeper or a hotel keeper. One wishes for one's pocket and one's comfert that she were. would then have a commercial reputation at stake to make good the lacking sense of honesty. In the well-managed boarding house the boarder will have no extras. Not twelve months the exports amounted to so in the apartment of the little bourgeoise. Not that these formidable trifles will be mentioned in the preliminary treaty. Then it is all smiles and blandishments, beguiling and sympathetic promises and allurements. Let us imagine this cheering creature asking the modest sum of £10 a month ($50). Knowing that she ports amounted to $5,288,296, a gain for the | will share very simple family life, probably in some insignificant quarter of Paris, and occupy a room at least luxurious it is possible to imagine, the foreigner naturally prise the whole of her domestic expenses for the month. In the same way the remains of cold vegetables are reheated and served again. nauseating aspect and taste. Whatever the little bourgeoise allows at table, be sure it will be the very worst and cheapest of its kind, and there will be as little as possible of it. While fruit is cheap and excellent, she will groan over its expensiveness, and give her boarders for desert musty biscults, or dried figs and prunes of a quality so inferior as to taste like caked sawdust. As for sweet dishes, sauces, varieties of vegetables, entrees and dainty little made dishes which we associate with our notion of the French cuisine-these you are as likely to find at her table as ice cream or Burgundy. With three boarders who pay her over $125 a month, she would regard it as a "scandal" to spend as much as a single franc on one dish. The little cup of colored water she calls cafe noir does not cost her quite two francs a month, yet she will charge you complacently five, and if you grumble tell you she is extravagantly honest because she does not make you pay ten

HER LITTLE TRICKS.

In the matter of profit her notions are, as M. Zola would say, "immense." She is a fervent Catholic, goes to church regularly, July 4. morning and evening, to confession, teaches the Christian doctrine in the shape of the catechism to poor children, but never seems to dream that honesty is one of the virtues presumably incorporated in the Christian religion. When she orders wood from the charbonnier for her boarders, she pays three france for it and places in their bill four and a half. Yet, good, consistent creature, she goes to the market on market days after mass and takes note of the prices in order to calculate to a farthing whom she pays as little as she can, and who is thus defrauded of one of the servant's acknowledged perquisites in France. But the little bourgeoise only understands her own rights in the matter of perqui sites. The bonne is to be closely watched She visits the kitchen when the girl has left to see if a lump of sugar or piece of bread or anything eise should be secreted anywhere. Perhaps once a week she will give her half a dozen rotten strawberries or cherries, when these are to be had for nothing, or the last spoonful of rice or stewed prunes when the enraged boarders have turned their eyes from the nauseous remains of these choice dishes. The life of the little bourgeoise is strange and dull one. She possesses louse, one wonders why, when a bedroom eems to be all that she requires. She ives in her bedroom and expects her boarders to do likewise. That a drawing-room was made to be sat in, and worked and talked in, never enters her head. she never uses her salon or her dining-

You order tea for your first breakfast.

Hot water will be poured over the same leaves for four or five successive days, and on a tiny plate will repose a single half lump of sugar. Indeed, a large portion of her days are spent in counting lumps of sugar. The little bourgeoise is impaled in my memory over her sugar bowl like the king of nursery legend counting out his money. If avarice be an impediment to the opening of the gates of paradise, our arrogant little friend will have a hard time of it I fear in the next world. Yet far would it be from me to deny her qualities. She is well mannered, pleasant, if you do not touch on her illegitimate profits, and intelligent. The exact cause of death is not known. Mr. Camp had been a sufferer for some time from stomach trouble, but the ailment was never a source of alarm to himself or his friends. Mr. Camp was born in Elmore, Vt., about sixty-five years ago. He has been a leader in Chicago music trade for over thirty years. At the time of his death he was treasurer of the Root memorial fund, and took a lively interest in the great concerts given at the Coliseum

WHAT DEMOCRATS WILL DO. Most Intelligent Will Vote Against Repudiation.

New York Evening Post. The nomination of this blatherskite for President of the United States and the adoption of a platform of repudiation make a pitiful climax for the Democratic party-the party of Jackson, Benton, Sey mour, Tilden, Cleveland-the party whose poast has been that it always stood for what the day's purchases will cost, so dollar into the hand of labor. The decathat the bonne shall not cheat her of the dence of the party in the past few years, since the Tillmans, Altgelds, Bryans and took Blackburns came to the front and took the leadership, has been melancholy in the extreme. There are signs in plenty that nearly all the men who give character to the party to-day, successors of the great men whose names honor their country's history, will repudiate this ticket and this platform as they would the pest, From all parts of the East and from many in the West and South we hear, not protest merely, but the indignant declaration of Democratic leaders and business men that they will vote the Republican ticket. They consider their honor and their means of livelihood alike involved in this battle. They find something of nigher and more immediate concern to their families and to the State than party ties or tariff schedules. They will vote not so much for McKinley and Hobart as against Bryan and repudiation, but their votes will count and their influence will tell from hour to hour and from day to day till the election.
